Appointment of
Visiting Music Teacher
Teacher of Singing

Information for Applicants

About The Role

Alleyn's Oakfield is seeking to appoint a well-qualified and enthusiastic Visiting Music Teacher (VMT) to deliver individual singing lessons, beginning as soon as possible following satisfactory pre-employment checks, during the 2026/27 academic year.

The successful candidate will inspire and motivate primary-aged pupils through engaging individual Singing lessons, fostering vocal confidence, healthy vocal technique and expressive performance.

We are seeking a teacher who can provide pupils with a strong grounding in classical vocal technique as the basis for healthy and confident singing, whilst also introducing and exploring a wide range of musical styles, including musical theatre, pop and contemporary repertoire. Pupils may range from complete beginners to those with previous experience, so the ability to adapt teaching and inspire young singers at all levels is essential.

We look to enter pupils into graded exams for ABRSM and Trinity College London examinations, so experience in preparing pupils for graded exams is desirable.

Nature of the Engagement

You will be engaged as a self-employed contractor providing music tuition directly to pupils. The contract for lessons is between you and the parent; the school is not a party to this arrangement and has no obligation to provide pupils, lessons, or a minimum level of work.

The school facilitates your access to its premises and pupils for this purpose. This arrangement may be ended by either you or the school, with reasonable notice, at any time.

Responsibilities of the Role:

- Deliver high-quality individual Singing lessons tailored to each pupil's level, goals and musical interests;
- Plan and deliver well-structured lessons using your professional judgment, with clear progression and appropriate challenge;
- Ensure pupils acquire, consolidate and develop musical knowledge, skills and understanding;
- Support pupils in preparing for external examinations (ABRSM, Trinity College London) where appropriate;
- Maintain discipline and behaviour standards during lessons in accordance with the school's behaviour procedures;
- Keep records of pupil progress and communicate with parents on request;
- Reflect on your teaching practice and seek continuous improvement;
- Maintain a professional, reliable and punctual approach to lesson delivery;
- Comply with safeguarding requirements and the school's child protection policies;
- Adhere to the school's data protection and confidentiality requirements;
- Be aware of the school's Health and Safety Policy;
- Where practicable, support the school's environmental sustainability agenda.

The school may provide feedback or guidance on standards or expectations; your approach to lesson content, pedagogy and teaching method remains your professional choice.
